THE SUPERIOR COURT OF PENNSYLVANIA

CHAMBERS OF PRESIDENT JUDGE KATE FORD ELLIOTT
SUITE 1660 / TWO CHATHAM CENTER / PITTSBURGH, PA 15219

To the Citizens of Pennsylvania:

On behalf of the judges and staff of the Superior Court, I am pleased to present the 2006 Annual Report. The past year has been a significant one for our court. Our new appeal filings in 2006 numbered 8,200, the second highest in the court's history. Additionally, we lost the services of a valued member of the court when former President Judge Joseph A. Del Sole retired from the bench to pursue a mediation practice. To alleviate this loss of judicial experience, at our request, the Pennsylvania Supreme Court specially appointed Senior Judge Robert E. Colville, from the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County, to serve on the Superior Court.

To further handle our increased caseload, the court instituted an appellate mediation program in Philadelphia, and it is our hope that the program will expand statewide within the next few years. This program is designed to expedite the appeal process and offer litigants a substantial savings of time and money.

The Superior Court has also revitalized our child-centered fast track program which monitors and expedites dependency, custody, adoption and support matters. We have done this in an effort to ensure that these most important cases involving children will continue to be given priority in our growing inventory.

Throughout 2006, the court continued to travel to various counties and law schools in the Commonwealth for the purpose of judicial outreach and education. We consider such special sessions a unique opportunity to provide our citizens with greater access to their system of justice.

As I complete my first year as President Judge, I have been grateful for the total dedication of the judges of this court to do all that is necessary to maintain the Superior Court's historic commitment to the delivery of justice in a fair and timely manner. It is my great privilege and pleasure to lead this great court and to present this report to the citizens of Pennsylvania.

PRESIDENT JUDGE

The year in review

In January 9, 2006, Chief Justice Ralph Cappy administered the oath of office to President Judge Kate Ford Elliott following her election as President Judge the previous November. A formal installation took place in Pittsburgh on March 10th.

On February 6th, Karen R. Bramblett, Esq. began her tenure as Prothonotary following her appointment by the President Judge. Attorney Bramblett combines both prior experience with the Superior Court as a Supervising Staff Attorney as well as extensive experience in private civil litigation.

In March, Senior Judge Robert E. Colville was specially assigned to the Superior Court by Chief Justice Cappy. Judge Colville was formerly a member of the Allegheny County Court of Common Pleas.

The third annual Appellate Courts Educational Conference was held in June. Professor Thomas Pangle, the Joe R. Long Chair in Democratic studies at the University of Texas; Professor Lorraine Pangle of the University of Texas; Professor Pam Karlan of the Stanford Law School; and Gordon S. Wood, Alva O. Way University Professor and Professor of History at Brown University were lecturers.

On September 2nd, President Judge Emeritus Joseph A. Del Sole left the bench to return to private practice. On September 7th, a portrait of P.J.E. Del Sole was unveiled and was accepted by the court for display in the Founders Courtroom in Philadelphia.

On October 6th, the court instituted an appellate mediation program to provide litigants with a prompt, effective, alternative means of resolving disputes without many of the expenses associated with litigation. The program initially targets civil appeals from the Eastern District. However, it is anticipated that the program eventually will be conducted statewide and will include a wider variety of cases. The court appointed P. Douglas Sisk, Esq., who helped develop a similar program for the Third Circuit Court of Appeals as an in-house mediator.

In October, the court conducted a retreat for its Central Legal Staff to assess, evaluate and, in some instances, revise existing functions. Staff is exploring new and innovative case screening and case flow management techniques.

During the year, the court continued to hold argument sessions throughout the Commonwealth. In addition to our own courtrooms, venues included: Scranton, Williamsport and West Chester, as well as Villanova, Temple and Duquesne Law Schools.

The court wishes to recognize the passing of former President Judge Robert Lee Jacobs on August 11, 2006. President Judge Jacobs served on the court from 1965 to 1979.

Family Fast Track Program

In July 3, 2000, the Superior Court instituted the Family Fast Track Program in an effort to eliminate delays in the appellate review of cases involving the rights and needs of children. Cases involving adoption, custody/visitation, child support, dependency and involuntary termination of parental rights are identified from filed docketing statements and are placed into the program. These appeals are then subject to monitoring procedures designed to expedite the filing of the trial court record and the parties' briefs. Once the briefing schedules are completed these appeals are given priority listing before panels.

In 2006, a total of 482 appeals were designated for the Family Fast Track Program. Of this number, 185 were concluded within the year. On average appeals in this program reached disposition within 180 days, exceeding the standards set by the American Bar Association by more than three months. The continued efforts of this Court, as well as the trial court Bench and the Bar, will ensure that appeals involving the rights of children will be thoroughly prepared and reviewed and expeditiously resolved.

While serving as a Police Officer, Judge Colville enrolled in evening classes at Duquesne University School of Law where he earned his Juris Doctor degree in 1969. In 1976 he was elected District Attorney of Allegheny County, a position he held until 1997 when he was elected a Judge in the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County. He is a member of the distinguished Duquesne University Century Club and received the "Outstanding Law Alumnus" Award from the Duquesne University Law Alumni Association.

Judge Colville and his wife, Janet, have six children and five grandchildren and make their home in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

In 1895, the Pennsylvania General Assembly established the Superior Court to hear appeals from decisions of the Courts of Common Pleas of the Commonwealth. From time to time, the legislature has expanded the Court's jurisdiction, and today it decides appeals touching almost every aspect of life and commerce in the state, including family matters, such as child custody, visitation, adoption, divorce, and support; criminal cases; issues concerning wills and estates; property disputes; and cases involving damages for breach of contract or personal injury. The judges of the Court are also responsible for hearing applications made by the Attorney General and district attorneys under the Wiretapping and Electronic Surveillance Control Act.

The Superior Court is often the final arbiter of legal disputes in Pennsylvania. Although the Supreme Court may grant a petition for allowance of appeal from a decision of the Superior Court, in the large majority of cases, such petitions are denied. Appeals allowed to the United States Supreme Court are even more infrequent.

The Superior Court was originally composed of seven judges who gathered in Harrisburg, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh as well as Scranton and Williamsport. The Supreme Court, in 1978, citing the "exceedingly heavy volume of appeals coming to the Superior Court," exercised its constitutional supervisory powers over Pennsylvania courts to order the Superior Court to begin sitting in panels of three judges composed of a Supreme Court justice, a Superior Court judge, and a Common Pleas judge. By rule, the Supreme Court provided that each panel would constitute a quorum and speak for the entire Superior Court.

In 1979, the voters approved an amendment to the Pennsylvania Constitution providing that the Superior Court be enlarged permanently. Pursuant to this constitutional change, the General Assembly in 1980 provided for the gubernatorial appointment of eight additional judges. By the start of 1986, all fifteen Superior Court seats had been filled by election.

Under statute, judges gain seniority by length of continuous service on the Court, and judges elected or appointed together determine seniority by lot. The president judge is chosen by election of the Court to serve a five-year term. Except for cases in which the Court specially orders consideration by an en banc panel of nine judges, the Court continues to sit in three-judge panels, assisted by senior judges specially appointed by the Supreme Court.
