York County Magisterial District Court 19-2-03 Temporarily Closed

HARRISBURG – York County Court Administration today announced the temporary closure of Magisterial District Court 19-02-03, 390 East Berlin Road in York, following an employee’s positive test for COVID-19.

The employee last worked in the magisterial district court on Thursday, November 19 and as required, adhered to health and safety guidelines including the use of personal protective equipment and social distancing when interacting with coworkers and the public. Work areas with which the employee had physical contact were cleaned.

On Monday, November 23 a second employee experienced potential symptoms and has not been in the court since Monday. The court is now closed and will not reopen until work areas with which the second employee had physical contact have again been cleaned. Staff will not return to the office until they are symptom-free and as directed by their personal physicians. Neighboring magisterial district court offices will handle any time-sensitive matters that arise while the court is closed.

Those potentially exposed, as defined by the Centers for Disease Control, will be notified by public health officials. While contact tracing efforts have just started, at this time there is no indication the public was exposed to either affected employee.
