The special master shall conduct such hearings or other proceedings, at such times and locations as he may determine, and as may be required to determine if the participation in the underlying criminal case (*Commonwealth v. If the special master determines that a conflict exists then he shall determine whether remedial measures may be employed to address the conflict.

The special master shall consider the various allegations of conflict referenced in the petitioner's King's Bench Petition and Supplement to King's Bench Petition, as well as the response thereto of the District Attorney's Office. The special master is authorized to employ all reasonable methods to facilitate the hearing, including but not limited to permitting counsel for the petitioner and the District Attorney's Office to present evidence and question witnesses under oath. The special master shall also retain the power to compel the production of testimony and/or documents as appropriate to resolve the issues as directed in this order.

All hearings, submission of proposed findings of fact, and legal argument shall be concluded by June 1, 2020. Within 60 days thereafter, the special master shall submit to this Court his findings of fact and recommendations, together with the transcripts of any hearings and any documents or exhibits entered into evidence at any hearings.
