

REESTABLISHMENT PLAN
FIFTY-NINTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF PENNSYLVANIA
MAGISTERIAL DISTRICT COURTS 59-3-01, 59-3-02, 59-3-03
CAMERON COUNTY AND ELK COUNTY

After every federal decennial census, the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania mandates a review of the existence of and boundaries for magisterial district courts in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. President Judges are charged with the duty to review the caseload, workload, and overall scope of the magisterial districts in 59 of the 60 judicial districts statewide in order to reestablish, realign or eliminate magisterial districts.

The 59th Judicial District of Pennsylvania is composed of Elk County and Cameron County and is located in the northcentral mountainous region of the state in the Pennsylvania Wilds scenic area of Pennsylvania. Elk County is a 6th class county and has a population of 30,990. In November 2021, it was announced that Elk County was eligible to be classified as a 7th class county, however that has not happened at the time of this writing. Cameron County is an 8th class county and has a population of 4,547. Both counties have experienced a decline in population since the 2010 census of 11% and 3% respectively.

Magisterial District 59-3-01 comprises all of Cameron County, serving the municipalities of the Boroughs of Emporium and Driftwood, and the Townships of Gibson, Grove, Lumber, Portage and Shippen. The court is located in the Cameron County Courthouse, 20 East Fifth Street, Emporium, Pennsylvania.

Magisterial District 59-3-02 is located generally in the northern and western sections of Elk County, serving the Boroughs of Johnsonburg and Ridgway, and the Townships of Highland, Horton, Jones, Millstone, Ridgway, and Spring Creek. The court is located at 409-G Center Street, Johnsonburg, Pennsylvania.

Magisterial District 59-3-03 is located generally in the southern and eastern section of Elk County, serving the City of St. Marys, and the Townships of Benezette, Fox, and Jay. The court is located at 810 South Michael Road, St. Marys, Pennsylvania.

Magisterial district courts handle criminal, private criminal, non-traffic, traffic, civil, landlord/tenant, and miscellaneous cases. The average caseload in District 59-3-01 is 1,509; in District 59-3-02 is 2,821; and in District 59-3-03 is 3,031.

Comparing the average caseload for District 59-3-01 (Cameron County) with the average caseload (1,813) in other 8th class counties, District 59-3-01 had 17% fewer cases filed.

Comparing the average caseload for District 59-3-02 and District 59-3-03 with the average caseload (3,230) in other 6th class counties, District 59-3-02 had 12% fewer cases filed and District 59-3-03 had 7% fewer cases filed.

The workload of the magisterial district judge varies depending upon the type of case. For example, a magisterial district judge spends more time on a criminal case than on a traffic case. Therefore, a review of the workload is necessary.

The average workload for Cameron County is 9,634 and Elk County is 22,982. The average workload in District 59-3-01, the only district court encompassing all of Cameron County, is 9,634. In District 59-3-02, the average workload is 19,581, which is 15% below the average workload for Elk County. The average workload in District 59-3-03 is 26,384, which is 15% above the average workload for Elk County. It should be noted that District Court 59-3-03 has three full-time support staff compared to District Court 59-3-02, which has two full-time support staff.

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has set a benchmark of +/- 15% to use as a workload analysis for each magisterial district court. Further review is needed regarding District Court 59-3-02 and District Court 59-3-03 in order to determine if re-establishment, realignment and/or elimination is warranted.

When considering a realignment of the City of St. Marys with District Court 59-3-02, access is not an issue as State Route 255 is a direct road from the City to the district court in Johnsonburg. Adding the average number of cases (291) and the average workload (2,961) would increase the filings and workload. However, removing the City of St. Marys, the largest municipality by far in the 59th Judicial District, from District Court 59-3-03 will only transfer the lower filing and corresponding lower workload problem that exists today in District Court 59-3-02 to District Court 59-3-03 and create a magisterial district that affects voting in the various St. Marys voting wards and increases travel for City citizens and law enforcement. The current Magisterial District Judge for District Court 59-3-03 would then be required to move from his residence in the City of St. Marys.

The other alignment consideration involves moving the contiguous municipalities of Benezette, Jay, and/or Fox Townships to District 59-3-02. The rural and sparsely populated areas of Benezette and Jay Townships would do little to add to the caseload and citizens again would be confronted with access to the district court in Johnsonburg, as the District Court 59-3-03 office is geographically closer for citizens in Benezette and Jay Townships than the 59-3-02 office. Adding Fox Township would in effect increase the average workload to District Court 59-3-02 and resolve the benchmark problem but would create a logistical dilemma as a significant number of case filings in Fox Township stem from Wal-Mart, which is much closer in distance to 59-3-03 in St. Marys than that of 59-3-02 in Johnsonburg, and in fact is often referred to as "the St. Marys" Wal-Mart.

For the above reasons, I recommend that District Court 59-3-01 be reestablished to serve all of Cameron County, encompassing the Boroughs of Emporium and Driftwood and the Townships of Gibson, Grove, Lumber, Portage, and Shippen.

I recommend that District Court 59-3-02 be reestablished to serve the northern and western parts of Elk County, encompassing the Boroughs of Johnsonburg and Ridgway and the Townships of Highland, Horton, Jones, Millstone, Ridgway, and Spring Creek.

I also recommend that District Court 59-3-03 be reestablished to serve the southern and eastern parts of Elk County, encompassing the City of St. Marys and the Townships of Benezette, Fox and Jay.

Hon. Shawn T. McMahon, President Judge
59th Judicial District of Pennsylvania
